DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

a. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this

Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 2, 5, 6, 8, 10-12, 14, 16-19, 22, 23, 25, 27-29, 31, and 33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Moyes (US 6,719,071).

Moyes discloses an apparatus and methods for drilling, which basically comprises all of the claimed inventions including a fluid circuit shown in Figs. 1 and 3, for supplying a drilling fluid to a drill bit and returning the drilling fluid from the drill bit 16 to the surface. The fluid circulation device in the return fluid is met by the hydraulically powered turbine motor driven centrifugal pumps 34, 36, which provide up-lifting energy or motive force for flowing the return fluid to the surface (col. 5, lines 15-29). The “supply line” and “the return line” are met by the drill string 12 and the annulus 17 respectively. It is also anticipated that the pumps of Moyes are operated independently of the drill bit rotation as the pumps are hydraulically powered.

b. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this

Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-6, 9, 12, 14, 18-23, and 26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Messenger (US 4,368,787).

The fluid circuit is anticipated by Fig. 1 where drill fluid is supplied to a drill bit 11 in the annulus 7, and the return fluid is pumped to the surface by piston operated pumps 31 through drill string 21. The circulation device is met by the pumps 31 which are of positive displacement driven by the pistons 33.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 15 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Moyes (US 6,719,071). The claimed location on an offshore platform fails to render a patentable distinction over the prior art in that it is known to one of the ordinary skill in the art the drilling apparatus of Moyes is also operable on an offshore platform.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 7, 13, 24, 30 and 32 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Karlsson et al, Trevino, Jr., Coenen et al, and Head all teach drilling methods and apparatus including downhole circulation devices.
